

LEAD IMPLEMENTATION AGENCIES

All four major Plans have a variety of public and private agencies named as a “lead agency” accountable for each individual strategy in the plan. With a few exceptions, one single organization has been identified as ultimately accountable for the success and management of each strategy. However, many strategies require partnerships and collaboration among a variety of stakeholders and organizations. In these cases, the lead agency’s role is to convene, engage, and coordinate the right partners and define respective roles and actions.
